FACTmarketing

In a letter written to his daughter in 1794, Benjamin Franklin bemoaned the choice of bald eagle as the national bird of the United States. The eagle, he contended with the dry humor he often displayed, was a "bird of bad moral character" due to its nature as a scavenger, while the turkey was a courageous bird that would "not hesitate to attack a grenadier of the British guards who should presume to invade his farm yard with a red coat on."
